Local Associations:
Each school has a local association with membership open to all parents/carers involved in the school and others who have an interest in its well being. The association acts for the school community in all matters of a local nature. It is the centre of the Federation’s activities where policies have their impact on communities and where issues need to be dealt with in a positive and cooperative manner.

Arch/Diocesan Councils:
The local school association is eligible to send two delegates along with observers to the Arch/Diocesan Parents and Friends Council meetings. This body develops policy for the diocese from input from the local associations and collaborates and cooperates with the Arch/bishop, Catholic education authorities and schools. It provides support, information, guidance and encouragement to the local associations and education authorities, plans and organises seminars and conferences and supports the work of the Federation.

State Committee:
This is the management body responsible for policy and direction and consists of two representatives of each diocese, an independent Chair, a nominee of the Provincial Council of Bishops and the Executive Officer and Assistant Executive Officer as ex-officio non-voting members. The present Chair of the committee is Mr John Beaton from Brisbane and the Bishops’ representative is Father John McGrath.

National Catholic Education Commission (NCEC)Parent Committee
NCEC has this year formed a parent committee to have input into the Commission. This group will be the voice of parents in Catholic Schools in Australia. Every state and territory has 2 representatives.

Joint Parent Committee (QJPC)
The four parent organisations in Queensland representing state, Catholic, independent and isolated students and parents formed the committee to attempt to raise the status of education in the political arenas at both state and federal level, and to press for improved funding for all students.
